

Timely Hints From the Beaverlodge Sub-Station

By W. D. Albright

"IT IS A PLEASURE AS WELL AS A DUTY TO SERVE"

Would winter ever find everyone fully ready?

A few loads of horse manure are an excellent means of protecting water-pipe lines.

September and October would appear to have been ideal for gradual ripening of young wood.

As soon as the ground is well crusted with frost it has been considered a good time to mulch strawberries and other perennials needing mulching. A recent finding in Ontario is that it is better not to wait for the frost crust.

The arts of peace attain fitting dignity when an international plowing match, held under the auspices of the Ontario Ploughmen's Association, and lasting four days, can draw over a hundred and twenty thousand spectators, from the Governor-General down. Would that plowing matches could be popularized in Europe.

J. W. Abbott, operator of the Illustration Station at Baldonnel, in the Fort St. John district of British Columbia, has made a real success with alfalfa, both as a seed and forage crop. This year again he has threshed off about eight acres more than last year, and the seed he has raised to date.

The fine autumn weather continued with a mean October temperature five degrees above normal, the only warmer October in 23 having occurred in 1929. The highest maximum reading was 70.2° on 19th; the lowest, 24.5° on 28th. Last year the October minimum was one degree more moderate than this, but taken as a whole the current autumn is about the best on record, rosebuds showing color to the end. The precipitation of 0.70 inch occurred altogether as rain, falling in 11 days. Bright sunshine was a little less than the previous 15-year average for the month.

November roses plucked from the open garden in the Peace River country are something to write home about. A block of eight varieties of hybrid perpetuals, hybrid teas and perennials have bloomed and budded plentifully all fall until the last were picked to save them on the afternoon of October 31. It is true the outer petals were frayed, but the hearts of the flowers were still attractive and would have been just as good if left till November 1, when a nearly perfect fragrant blossom of Gruss von Teplitz was plucked under a hopvine arbor where the bush had been blooming for some time.

"At altitudes between 5,000 and 11,000 feet," says an official publication of the United States Department of Agriculture, "Peruvian agriculture was of the terrace system, which the ancient Peruvians carried to a higher development than any other people. Hundreds of miles of land were reclaimed by straightening rivers, walling, filling, levelling and covering with a deep layer of fine soil." After being cropped with maize for centuries the land was left to grow rock-walled terraces are still fertile, having enabled millions of people to live in a region which in its natural condition would have been useless for agricultural purposes. The ancient Peruvians are acknowledged as the first soil conservationists of the New World.

"The earlier pioneers of the West," writes Col. J. K. Cornwall in a personal letter to the author of this column, "waited years for railroads, also for a market, before they emerged from the sod-shack stage. They were the last of their race. This is a restless and want-everything age. Modern conveniences such as radio, help to 'kid' the listeners along about this and that which they should have—easy payment plan, etc.—all of which only irritates the ever-restlessness that stimulates want and desire in the human breast. I have a fair knowledge of past history and have endeavored to modify its harsh points to fit in with modern conditions, which enables me to excuse the impatience of the 15-bushel-per-acre boys when they complain about the country. I know they are not the kind of people upon whom its reputation will rest."

Soil Building a Slow and Expensive Process

How very difficult it is to build soil by cropping or green manuring practices is set forth in United States Department of Agriculture leaflet entitled "Soil-Depleting, Soil-Conserving and Soil-Building Crops." Intercultivated crops permit rapid waste through erosion plus oxidation plus direct removal of plant food. Cultivation stimulates soil processes that literally "burn up" the organic matter. Small-grain crops are less soil depleting than intertilled crops

HARVESTING IN THE SHETLAND ISLANDS

This photograph shows a field of barley being cut at Sunbrough Farm, in the extreme south of the Shetland Islands. The barley is drawn toward the mower by a hand rake, operated by a man riding on the left-hand side of the machine, and the stalks are then tied together and assembled in sheaves.

like corn or cotton, but in comparison with meadow small grain, a soil-depleting crop. For real soil building it is necessary to turn to permanent sod. A healthy grass sod produces new roots each year and the decay of the old roots adds to the organic matter because the soil is undisturbed. Gustafson, of Cornell University, cites a case where a virgin Illinois prairie sod was found to contain 37,000 pounds per acre of live roots. Green manuring, even with legumes like vetch, improves the land slowly. On sandy soils in hot climates it may not really improve the land at all. Allowing for loss of organic matter in the summer crop, it would probably be more than 100 years before the organic matter in a soil containing 2 per cent of live roots could be doubled by turning under a good green-manure crop every year.

All of which emphasizes the importance of conserving the virgin fertility of our lands. "It is possible," we are told, "by using proper crops, proper rotations, applications of lime and minerals, where necessary and approved anti-erosion practices to conserve our soils so as to prevent the steady decline in yields that has characterized soil-mining practices." The difficulty of permanently raising soil fertility as set forth in the bulletin is in line with Dr. Wyatt's findings on the grey soils and with Beaverlodge rotation experiments so far as they have gone to date.

It has taken Nature ages to build our best soils. It is for us to conserve them. Restoration is uphill work.

Pruning and Protecting Sand-cherryes

Sandcherry bushes are very bushy. Should I thin these out or leave them in thick bushes? Could you advise me how to protect them from rodents (mice, rabbits) in the winter? (Mrs.) J. L. Falner, Alta.

Ans.: This is the sandcherry's natural habit of growth.

Bushes could be best protected from mice and rabbits by mounding them up to a height of a foot or two with soil. It will, of course, be necessary to remove this soil early in the spring. J. F. Moore.

NEW OXYGEN TREATMENT IS SHOWN TO THE AMERICAN COLLEGE OF SURGEONS

Oxygen loosely locked up in grains of white powder was reported as a new treatment for healing wounds rapidly.

The process was shown to the American College of Surgeons at a clinic at Presbyterian Hospital by Dr. Frank L. Meleny.

Oxygen, it was explained, is supposed to owe its healing power in wounds to its ability to drive out the kind of bacteria which live without oxygen. They are known as "anaerobes" and include some of the serious sources of infections.

The obstacle to using oxygen has been its quick evaporation from the wound. The powder is a new product of chemistry, zinc peroxide, which dissolves in liquid and flushed into a wound. The heavy zinc particles spread through the injured tissues and lodge there. Each grain of the zinc thereupon becomes a slow fountain of oxygen. It keeps on giving off oxygen for several hours.

Books as part of the cure after an operation were urged by Gordon H. Kamman, M.D., of the University of Minnesota.

"The right books," he said, "will help in recovery and the wrong ones will make the patient worse."

"Too few people," he said, "are now aware of the possibilities of reading in the treatment of medical, surgical and psychoneurotic patients. The individual must be regarded as a whole and we no longer cling to the dualistic concept of men in which the mind is considered separately from the body."

"To allow outsiders to supply patients with reading material unsupervised is as bad as allowing them to bring the patient his diet or medicine."

The right books, Dr. Kamman described as those which take the patient's mind off himself. The so-called "tired business man," he said, is a tough subject for books because as a rule this man has been so busy making money he never has had time for reading and is not interested.

ELMWORTH NEWS

Last Post Sounded For Veteran Of Great War

ELMWORTH, Oct. 31.—Elmworth and district extend their deepest sympathy to Mrs. Ed. Miller in the loss of her brother, George Watt, who passed away so suddenly. Always in poor health, but always jolly, George will ever be remembered by his many friends. Funeral services took place Sunday, October 23, at Elmworth school, and from there to the last resting place at Halcourt cemetery. Rev. Geo. A. Shields conducted the services.

George McBeath Watt was born at Thurso, Scotland, and at the time of his death, October 18, was 47 years of age. He served overseas, first in France and then in Mesopotamia. Wounds received in battle were the cause of his death.

Highly respected, a large crowd, one of the largest ever to gather in Elmworth, attended the services and Legion members from many districts were also present. Comrade Tom Wilson sounded the Last Post.

This community will miss him. Though his health was never good, yet he took great interest in this district and in the work of many organizations.

Three brothers and one sister in Scotland, besides Mrs. Miller, are left to mourn his loss.

TAKING CHARGE OF STORE
We hear that Sid Watson is taking charge of the store and post office here. The J. Dickinsons are leaving soon for Calgary. We wonder if they realize how much they will be missed by their many friends. We wish them a pleasant journey and much success in their new home.

H. Russell is drilling a well on his farm and so far has met with some hard luck. We hope from now on drilling will be good and that a flowing well comes in.

C. Stewart has a well of fine water on his place. He had good luck with his drilling.

Mrs. G. Moyer held the October meeting of the Ladies' Aid at her home. Over 20 members and two visitors attended. After the meeting dainty refreshments were enjoyed by all. Mrs. Cargill is to have the November meeting.

The W. A. will hold a parcel and home-cooking sale on November 11. Everyone welcome—come and have a good time.

OUT OUR WAY
Marvin Stewart has left Elmworth for a while. Hope the change does him good and that he will be back soon.

Henry Weiss and brother Alvin paid Elmworth a short visit last Monday.

Jack shipping cattle, also Brewster Dewey taking a trip to Beaver Lodge and wondering how she was to get home.

Quite a number from here attending the wedding dance at Itipaw last Friday night.

Who got the box of chocolates when she had, or didn't have mumps? Nuff sed.

HUALLEN NEWS

HUALLEN, Oct. 31.—(Delayed).—Madelon Flint was hurt the other day while out horseback riding. Her saddle turned around, causing her to fall off, sustaining a double fracture of the wrist.

Gus Pfau has purchased the Bill Garlock farm from the Soldier Settlement Board. We understand the price paid was $2,400.

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schadeck recently were Mr. and Mrs. W. Pohl and Mr. and Mrs. Stengel, who drove by car from Wetaskiwin. Mrs. Pohl and Mrs. Stengel are sisters of Mrs. Schadeck.

Two local boys, Raymond Wilsey and Marion Grubb, filed on homesteads down by the Forks.

Under the supervision of the road foreman, Bill Russell, much needed improvements have been made on the various roads in the district.

Everybody's doing it. Digging water reservoirs is the favorite outdoor sport these days. The lack of water through wells and dams drying up is causing some concern among farmers who have been compelled to haul water for their stock.

Aspen Dale community held a meeting in the school-house last Saturday night. Officers were elected and plans made for various social activities throughout the coming winter. Card parties will be held and arrangements are being made for holding a dance and subscriptions are being solicited to provide funds for the children's Christmas entertainment. R. S. Young was elected president and Miss Anna Hennig Secretary-Treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Childs of Grande Prairie visited at N. E. Clow's over the week-end.

HAZELMERE NEWS

HAZELMERE, Nov. 2.—The Beaverbrook school children held a very enjoyable Halloween party for their mothers at the school. Everybody had a swell time bobbing for apples and other games. The children served lunch.

John Scully was the lucky winner of the W. I. quilt raffled at Rio Grande on October 31.

The first snow makes us think winter must be on its way. Allan Dalgleish is down at the Wapiti hauling logs for lumber.

Gerald Quinn plans on building a skating rink at his place. Wheel! We'll have lots of fun this winter.

ALBRIGHT NEWS

W. A. SUPPER DECIDED SUCCESS

ALBRIGHT, Oct. 31.—(Delayed).—The W. A. Supper was a decided success in every way and the proceeds were $36. The society wishes to thank the many kind people who are not members who donated chickens and other food to the supper. In many cases it was difficult to thank them personally, but the W. A. wants everyone to know that the gifts were much appreciated.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. R. Lay on Thursday afternoon, November 10. All ladies of the district are cordially invited to attend.

Wit and Humor

Wrong Term

Policeman—"He was fighting his wife, your worship, when I arrested him, and—"

"Prisoner (interrupting rudely)—"When you rescued me, if you don't mind."

Never Suffered

Standy—"Do you believe kissing is unhealthy?"
Joan—"I couldn't say. I've never been kissed."
Standy—"You've never been kissed?"
Joan—"I've never been ill."

Where To Start

The modern housewife was telling her neighbor what a lot of work she had to do. "I've the rugs to shake, grate to clean, brasses to do, dinner and tea to get ready, and I've to go to my bed. I think I'll go to my bed first."

Time

Gentleman at station (to porter)—"Could you tell me the time?"
Porter—"Oh, yes, it rang eleven o'clock twenty-five minutes ago."

One of Few

A pretty girl said to an energetic young salesman at a counter—"I want some soap, please."

He looked at her closely, like a real beauty specialist.
"I would recommend," he said, "for a complexion that combines so delicately the lovely colors of the lily and the rose of Sharon."

"Excuse me," the girl broke in, "I don't want soap."

Economy

Three brothers from Aberdeen, received news that their father, living in Glasgow, was seriously ill. One of the brothers was despatched to visit him. He was instructed to wire after his arrival.

"Remember," said the other two, "you can send nine words for sixpence."

Later that evening the following telegram was received: "Arrived. Father dead. Funeral Wednesday. Rangers two. Celtic one."

Proof of the Pudding

Applicant for office boy's job—I may say I am pretty smart. I have won several cross-words and word picture competitions.

Employer—Yes, but I want someone who could be smart during office hours.

Applicant—This was in office hours, sir.

Soaking in "the Liquid"

The scene was the bar of the village inn. "What be the matter w' old Garge?"

"He's got fluid on the knees," said the landlord. "The last lot of butter you sent was short weight," complained the grocer one day.

"Really?" replied the farmer's wife. "I remember now that I had mislaid my pound weight, so I used a pound packet of your sugar."

Sudden Transformation

An irate customer called at the home laundry with a parcel. Opening it, he said, "Look at that!"

The manager fingered the contents for a moment or two and then said, "But I see nothing wrong with this lace."

"Lace be hanged! That was a bed-sheet," stormed the customer.

A Double Up

The teacher was explaining to his class that letters such as M, L, etc., should be read as double M, double L, etc.

Soon afterwards one of the boys was reading a verse from a poem, the first line of which read, "Up, up, my love, the sun is shining," but the boy, taking the lesson to heart, read in a very loud voice, "Double up, my love, the sun is shining."

Advertising Logic

A motorist was asked if he had tried a new atomizer which is said to half petrol consumption.

"Rather," he replied. "It did all the makers claimed for it, and saved 50 per cent of my petrol. I also bought a new carburettor which saved 30 per cent, got another brand of petrol which saved 20 per cent, and some special sparking plugs which saved another 10 per cent."

"Then I took the car out for a test run, and I'm dashed if the petrol tank didn't overflow before I'd gone five miles."

TO WOMEN

concerned with money matters

IN MANY A FAMILY circle the woman of the house is the executive head as well as the heart of the home.

To conserve family funds; to spend wisely; to safeguard the present and future welfare of the family . . . these, as well as purely domestic responsibilities, are hers today.

So she uses her bank . . . not merely as a safe place to keep her money, but also for friendly talks with the manager when financial problems arise.

SOFTEN THOSE SHADOWS!

No harsh shadows on the faces in this picture! The paper makes an excellent reflector, allows subjects to face AWAY from the sun, not squint INTO it! Try it and see!

WHEN one advises, "Use a reflector to soften and lighten shadows," most snapshooters think, "Oh, that is too complicated — too much trouble."

As a matter of fact, any white or light-colored surface can serve as a reflector, to make shadows soft and full of detail. For instance, look at a man reading a newspaper. The newspaper catches light and reflects it into his face — it is a very good shadow illuminator.

A white spring or summer dress catches light and reflects it to the subject's face, and under her chin. A broad white hat brim catches light from the dress, and reflects it to the subject's forehead.

A white building (see diagram) can be used as a reflector to lighten the shadow side of the person you are picturing. A white picnic cloth, spread in the sun, reflects enough light to soften shadows in the faces of all the group around it.

Whenever you are taking pictures of people, especially in sunlight, make sure that the shadows are softened in some fashion. Black shadows under the subject's eyebrows and nose ruin a picture. Use any sort of reflecting surface — a white cardboard, white cloth, newspaper, the wall of a white house — anything handy that will reflect light. It takes only a moment to arrange subject or reflector properly — and the picture will be immensely improved.

188 John van Gulder

A white wall will reflect light to the shadow side of the face if the subject is placed properly. So will a newspaper, or white sheet. S, subject; C, camera; R, reflecting surface.

SEXSMITH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE IS SUPPORTING CANCER FUND

There was an item in the last issue of The Tribune relating to Cancer Fund, which is being sponsored by the Women's Institute, the money thus collected to be used in buying radium for free government treatment of cancer in the University Hospital, Edmonton.

In conversation with the treasurer of the Sexsmith Women's Institute, she stated that at a recent meeting ten dollars had been voted towards this fund, and same had been sent to the provincial treasurer at Wetaskiwin. Mrs. Montgomery, acknowledgment of which has already been received. It is also the intention of the local W. I. to place a number of "widow's mite" boxes or jars around the town, which will be for the public to drop in their nickels and dimes, or any amount they see fit to give. This is a very worthy cause and should have the support of everybody. There is an old Scotch saying that "Many a mickle makes a muckle," which being interpreted into Canadian means that if you collect enough nickels you will soon have quite a lot of money. So when you see one of these jars, just dig down and contribute.

ESCAPED MINK PLAYS HAVOC WITH CHICKENS

Mr. McDonald of Hythe arrived in town on Saturday last with a trailer attached to his car containing a number of live mink, which he was taking out to Edmonton. Mr. H. M. McMillan of Sexsmith also has a number of these animals, which he was going to add to those of Mr. McDonald. Both these men left for Edmonton this morning.

On Saturday night the trailer containing the mink was parked in Mr. McMillan's backyard and sometime during the early hours of Monday morning one of the mink decided to explore the town, and in some way managed to make his escape from the cage.

Now on the next street lives Mr. Paul Hudz, who is more or less of a chicken fancier. About 3 o'clock Monday morning he was awakened by what sounded like a "Donnybrook Fair" amongst his hens, and on getting up to investigate found two of them "hors de combat" or, in other words, lying on the ground with their feet in the air. A third one was being dragged away by some sort of an animal, which Mr. Hudz at first mistook for a cat, and when after it with a club, putting it out of business. It was rather unfortunate for the mink, also the owner, as these animals are worth somewhere around $60 to $75.

ONE ON THE ENGLISH

We saw a good story in the Toronto Star which we believe to be well worth repeating. Apparently an Englishman was making a speech at some meeting, in the course of which he said that he had been known as an Englishman, lived like an Englishman, and that he would die an Englishman. A Scotchman in the audience on hearing this said, "Mon hae ye no ambition." A lot of stories have been told on the Scot, so we thought it was time that someone took a crack at the English. Of course this is without prejudice.

AT THE GRAND THEATRE

The Boyd shows of Peace River showed at the Grand Theatre Thursday, November 3, with a "Western" to a fair house. Personally, we are not very strong for this type of picture, but there will be a treat in store for the picture fans here on Thursday, November 17, when Deanna Durbin will appear in "One Hundred Men and a Girl." We understand that this will be the first appearance of this young actress in the Peace River country.

N. S. APPLE CROP RECORD

Latest official estimate of Nova Scotia's 1938 apple crop at 2,400,000 barrels shows that the second largest crop in the history of the apple producing areas has been produced, the largest having been five years ago. The striking feature of the crop this season, states the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture, is the fact that approximately 90 per cent of the crop will come within the market grades of apples, which means that the crop is the largest commercial crop ever harvested. This is taken as a distinct tribute to the thorough manner in which cultivation, fertilization and spraying have been carried out by the growers during the year.

SCENIC HEIGHTS

WORK ON RINK PROGRESSING

SCENIC HEIGHTS, Nov. 8.—In spite of the unfavorable weather conditions, work on the skating rink is making good progress. The rink itself has been extended about 25 feet, bringing it up to regulation size. Also the dressing room has been turned around and a 10x16-foot addition is in the process of building. The executive of the Athletic Association appreciates the time and effort being put into this voluntary work of improving the rink.

BEEF RING MEETING BRINGS BIG ATTENDANCE

The most successful meeting in the history of the Scenic Heights Beef Ring, at least from the standpoint of attendance, was held last Tuesday evening in the community hall. Mr. O. J. Anderson, secretary of the Ring, presented the statements of the individual shareholders. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that the Ring had operated quite successfully during the past season and it was unanimously decided to operate the Ring again next year, on practically the same basis. The Ring management have arranged with Mr. E. Harvey to act as butcher again next season. It is likely the Ring will commence operation next year in the early part of May.

COAL MINE FINDING READY SALE FOR ITS PRODUCT

HUALLEN, Nov. 7.—The Spruce Canyon coal mine, two miles straight west from Huallen, is finding ready sale for its product. Four men are employed at full time. The mine was opened a year ago. Two new houses have been erected near the mine to accommodate two families. Buck Schanuel and L. Hickel are the owners.

CURLING RINK FINISHED

The curling rink, situated in the village, built largely by voluntary labor, has been completed and devotees of the roarin' game in Huallen and district are now waiting for frost to produce the ice. A successful season is looked for.

Several farms in the district have changed hands recently.

EAST KLESKUN SCHOOL PUPILS ENJOY TALKIES

Chaperoned by the teacher, Miss L. Phillips, some twenty-five pupils of the East Kleskun school attended the Capitol Theatre on Saturday afternoon, at which "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" was the principal offering.

The boys and girls, who were in high glee, were taken to Grande Prairie in a truck owned and driven by Lawrence Cowell.

FINDS BUSINESS GOOD DESPITE GLOOMY REPORTS

Allan Sharp of Edmonton, representing Congdon Marsh Ltd. of Winnipeg, is making his usual fall rounds of Grande Prairie and district.

In conversation with The Tribune reporter, Mr. Sharp stated that he found business much better than the gloomy reports sent out from this country.

Mr. Sharp was a guest of the Donald Hotel. He has been covering the Peace River for the past ten years.

SCOUTS CLEAR TRAILS INTO THE DINOSAUR COUNTRY

In co-operation with the Junior B. of T. Drumheller, Alta., Boy Scouts have been clearing and marking motor and hiking trails into the adjacent district where petrified wood and dinosaur bones have been found.

DEBOLT ITEMS

LARGE CROWD AT CONCERT AND PLAY

DE BOLT, Nov. 7.—The concert and play sponsored by the Ladies' Aid, given at the hall on Friday evening, was attended by a large crowd, quite a number coming from Grande Prairie as far east as Sturgeon Heights. Everyone reported the concert and play very good.

Bill Sargent was the lucky winner of the quilt drawn for on that evening.

After the concert three young men from Grande Prairie played for a few hours dancing.

On Sunday afternoon Rev. A. Willis Cann from Grande Prairie held memorial services at the United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bodeker of Valleyview were visitors at the G. DeBolt home on Sunday night and Monday. They were on their way home from Grande Prairie.

SILVER TEA AND BAZAAR

The Ladies' Aid will hold a silver tea and bazaar at the Legion Hall on Saturday, November 19, from 2 to 6 p.m. There will be a card party in the evening.

Mrs. Given and son, Eddie, have both been laid up with "flu," but are improving.

Miss Bessie Woods, Miss Barbara Malcom and Mr. Dave DeBolt were all supper guests at the Turner home on Sunday.

Mrs. Iva Dowling went in to town on Monday to work for Mrs. Peebles.

Mrs. E. Sheltre was visiting at the I. Morrison home for a few days last week.

HALCOURT NEWS

TREE FUND PLAYS AND DANCE ALL TO THE GOOD

HALCOURT, Nov. 7.—The plays and dance held in the hall in aid of the children's Christmas Tree Fund were all to the good. A nice sum of money was raised for this worthy cause. Everyone reported as having an excellent time. All parts in both the children's and grown-up's plays were well done and songs and monologues took care of the remainder of the evening's entertainment.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Romanoff on the birth of a son.

Congratulations are also in order for Mr. Ingledew, who celebrated his 70th birthday on November 5. By way of celebration, Mr. Ingledew and family went to town and took in the show.

Herb Cook of Wemley was a visitor last week.

SEEN AND WHAT HAVE YOU

Ran Cage in the ditch. One-hand driving. Ran?

John Miller chasing cattle. How about trading for a good saddle horse, John?

Alf Perdue getting a pull on his car by Vic McKay.

T. Williams swearing to sit astride his wife with a shotgun next Halloween.

A pair of unmentionables floating in the breeze on P. Hunkin's gate.

Ted Ball listening to a request number. What a thrill!

ALONG THE WAPITI

By Junius

ALONG THE WAPITI, Nov. 8.—Weather very uncertain—two days' snow and rain out here. All fall work completed.

FIRST WHIST DRIVE OF W. I.

The W. I. held their first whist drive of the season at the school Saturday evening. Only a small attendance, but all had good time. Miss Peggy McAllister won ladies' first, a nice mixing bowl; Louis Hawkes, gentlemen's first, a tobacco pouch; Mrs. J. C. Maclean, ladies' consolation, box of marshmallows; Don Caldwell, gentlemen's consolation, marshmallows.

The next whist drive November 19, one week from Saturday evening, at Mrs. Brumpton's. Always a good time, good prizes, and always good eats—all for ten cents.

The next W. I. meeting will be held at Mrs. Hawkes, across from Millarston on Thursday afternoon, November 17. All ladies welcome.

LAST WEEK'S ALONG THE WAPITI NEWS

One of the most beautiful falls we have experienced since coming here twenty years ago. All plowing done. Probably a lot of rain would have been better for next spring's moisture, but oh! it has been pleasant.

Louis Hawkes has located a fine spring on John Van Hermal's place and solved his water problem for keeps.

Mrs. Bain, Miss Helen and Duncan junior returned for the week-end from their new home over the river. Anderson and son have finished working on Ed Woods' breaking and stubble and left it in fine shape for spring.

The water problem is bad through here. Mr. McAllister and Cliff Stearn cleaned and deepened the well on Bill Davies place and we will have lots of water it seems.

Page Mr. Mercer and tell him that his two-year-old heifer has a wonderfully well-bred heifer calf and is giving almost two pails of milk daily.

Having been on my back for some two months, and still there, the wife superintended the moving of our things, etc., to Bill Davies place, where we will be for a few months till the doctors decide what to do with me. We are now handy to everything and I am glad to say I have had lots of visitors, which helps, even if we serve meals at all hours. So I am making my last kick for old J. B. and trying to send him some news.

Ian McAllister has rented the arable land on the Bain farm and finished plowing. Duncan and Mrs. Bain will run their extensive small fruits and garden themselves.

Walter McAllister has been helping Tom Brumpton, and on enquiring I find Tom has not forgotten the 23rd Psalm.

George A'hern has been called into the University Hospital, Edmonton, by the Pension Board, and it may be a long time before he gets out. Any friends who write, address University Hospital, South Edmonton, and in hospital there, is where you appreciate letters from friends.

Thorn Frederickson had a hard time getting cheese from Norman Leslie in the store at Dimsdale. Thorn pronounces cheese, "cheese," and although Thorn wants cheese, Norman was bound to give him tea till Thorn finally waited on himself.

On the third Thursday of October the W. I. held one of the most successful meetings at the home of Mrs. Don Noyes, only one member or so being absent out of 14 members. They are actively interested in the cancer fund.

The dance on October 28, sponsored by the W. I., was a success in every way. Jack Penson and Mel Rodacker were in fine fettle and kept everyone on their toes. Some of the boxes auctioned went to a good figure. With the sale of work, etc., they realized some $28.

John Sinclair is getting along fine after his siege of pneumonia in the hospital. He has been home a couple of weeks.

Cliff Stearn has been helping Mrs. J. C. Maclean since the middle of October. He will leave on November 15 for his winter's work lumbering. He says he is returning in the spring to this district.

Now that we are located in the centre of the district, Louis B. and Thorn and the rest of you oldtimers, also Bill, Milt, drop in and say "hello." Jack Head of Teepee Creek, if you don't hit England, jump a car and come out for a week. Come anyway and say "au revoir."

CANADA, U.S. AND U.K.

According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, United States exports to the two most important customers, the commonwealths of the British Empire, the United Kingdom and Canada, for the first six months of 1938 showed divergent trends as compared with the corresponding six months of 1937. The United Kingdom took 10.1 per cent of the total U.S. exports, with purchases amounting to $255,696,000, an increase of 2.1 per cent over the value of $249,826,000 in the 1937 period. On the other hand, shipments to Canada amounted to 10.1 per cent of the total value of U.S. exports and were valued at $241,400,000, a decline of 0.9 per cent from the value of $243,852,000 for the first six months of 1937.

Fear Nazi Ban of Boy Scouting in Czechoslovakia

Prior to the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia the Boy Scouts of that country numbered 25,326. The extent to which Nazi control will reduce this number has not yet been announced. Because of its code of international youth friendliness Scouting was immediately disbanded by edict upon Nazi entry into Austria and friends of Scouting fear the same action in Czechoslovakia.

Dreadful Week In London Is Graphically Described By Former West-End Girl

The following letter was recently received by Mr. and Mrs. J. Archer, Beaver Lodge, from their daughter, Margaret, now living in London, England:

This week in London has been one we shall never forget. We all have our gas masks; and trenches and bomb-proof as well as gas-proof rooms have been built everywhere. We thought nothing could save us from Hitler's bombs. At night you could see women crying in the street. They think Chamberlain has been flying across because he is in favor of Germany. We hardly knew where we would be sleeping the next night. Most and nearly all the fellows in the office had either been called up or had enlisted. Fellows came into the office in khaki and the streets were full of soldiers, the sky full of searchlights at night and the air full of aeroplanes in the day time. The lovely parks that were not even walked on are all cut up in trenches over six feet deep.

Guns were set up all over London and they were not a pleasant sight. Underground trains were stopped so that the underground could be used in case of an air raid. At night you could see women crying in the street. In the morning children carrying a blanket and a few clothes were sent to school, not knowing where they might be by night.

Many of the women and children had been sent out of London. The hospitals were absolutely emptied and nurses were waiting in empty wards waiting for wounded men.

Our office was going to be moved to the country—everything was ready to go. Many offices had duplicate copies of their important papers made and these were sent out of London.

I was told I could leave the office on Monday and get my things together for sailing the first opportunity. The heads at the office said I must go—if I had a home to go to, I was to go. They nearly had me on the boat. My uncle and aunt came down from the Midlands to get my return ticket.

I cannot say what kept me here, but when the papers this morning said "No War"—I thanked my lucky stars I had stuck it out. Ever since this morning at the office they did not expect me. My job was going to be held open for me if I went back to Canada. I could come back to it when the war was over. At last I decided to go to the Midlands—leave my job and help there. I was still to have my job when things quietened down.

We knew that Germany would be absolutely wiped out, and most of England too. Hitler was more than surprised when he knew the British Navy had been mobilized. It certainly is strong with the best in the navy how they have tried to get word to the German people just what really was happening. They don't know what they nearly walked into.

The telegraph and telephone wires have been so busy that people were requested not to use them unless absolutely necessary. Even the post was delayed. People were ordered not to use gasoline (petrol) unless absolutely necessary.

My gas mask is awful. The first time I had one when I was being fitted my face was wet all over. We had to collect them Tuesday night and every night since we have put them on to get used to them. I'm sure I could not stand one of those things on my face very long, and they look so funny. When you look at another person you can't help but laugh, and that is awful to laugh with the fool things on.

Each morning when I went to the office whippers went all over. "She is still here." They thought because I was a Canadian I would run. Some said we were cowards—it wasn't a case of being a coward, it was a case of being a fool to stay when it wasn't necessary.

Fellows were enjoying themselves as much as possible each night, thinking it might be their last. Girls were even knitting socks. Yes, it was a funny now, but we were thinking of only one thing, and that was—we'd better make the most of things, as we wouldn't be here long.

Chamberlain is a hero and what he has saved us from is never what I know. The crowd worship him. There have been down to No. 10 Downing Street and the crowds are terrible. Policemen keep you on the move all the time. We didn't work in the office because we felt everything would be blown to pieces. Crowds of stenographers and clerks gathered everywhere. No life insurance of any kind was sold—no one's life was worth insuring.

It was almost impossible to get into the C.P.R. office and absolutely impossible to book any passage on any American boat. People couldn't get out of England fast enough.

Today everyone has a smile. All this week there has been a lot more courtesy than any ordinary times. People were trying to be peaceful here—when you knocked anyone on the street—instead of a frown you got "sorry." No it certainly wasn't natural at all. We wanted to yell for joy this morning and the day did. What a lesson we have learned.

Livestock Numbers Decrease On Farms In The Dominion

Total cattle on the farms of Canada as at June 1, 1938, was 8,511,200 head, a decrease of 329,300 compared with the corresponding date in 1937. This decline is principally accounted for by the liquidation of herds in Saskatchewan, to the number of 312,500 head, necessitated by the severe drought. A review of the figures for recent years shows that the number of cattle in Canada increased gradually each year from 1928 to 1934, when it then reached a peak of 8,851,900. Since 1934, however, there has been a decrease and the 1938 figures are the same as for 1932.

HOGS
Hogs, as at June 1, 1938, totaled 3,486,000, a decrease of 470,400, as compared with the corresponding date in 1937. With the exception of Prince Edward Island, all the provinces showed a decline, the largest being in Saskatchewan, where the number decreased by 11 per cent in 12 months. At present there are less hogs on the farms than for any year in 1937, the number being 4,700,000 and there has been an annual decline since then, except in 1936 when the total reached 4,455,000, an increase over 1935 of 506,000.

SHEEP
There was last June a total of 3,415,000 sheep on Canadian farms, 75,100 more than in June, 1937, but 229,000 less than in 1932. The high figure in recent years, Ontario, Alberta and Quebec are the principal sheep raising provinces in the Dominion.

HORSES
An interesting feature about the latest count of horses on farms in the Dominion shows that in the 12 months ended June 1, 1938, all the provinces except Saskatchewan and Alberta accounted for increases. This year's tabulation gives the number of farm horses as 2,829,700, only 62,200 below 1937, but compared with 1931 the 1938 figures show a decrease of 263,000.

WINTER FAIR LIVESTOCK

Within the 25-acre area of the Royal Winter Fair which opens at Toronto on November 15, there will be the largest livestock show in the Dominion. In addition to the livestock, there will be a large display of poultry, turkeys, geese, 600 dogs, 300 of "canned" best cats, and silver fox and mink.

In the cattle division, Lord Elgin, who is the grandson of Lord Elgin, Governor General of Canada from 1847 to 1851, will judge the Aberdeen Angus classes, while at the Horse Show, Lord Middleton, M.C., Malton, Yorkshire, England, and J. N. Fletcher of Warrenton, Va., will be the judges of the hunters; John R. Thompson, of Chicago, Ill., and W. H. Smith, Oakville, Ont., will judge harness horses and harness ponies; Geo. Lee, Mexico, Mo., and Robert G. Jones, Paris, Ky., the saddle horses and saddle ponies; Geo. Lee and Hon. W. Earle Rowe, N. Robinson, Ont., the roadsters, and Col. Leonard, London, Ont., and Lord Middleton, the remounts.

HAY ABUNDANT IN U. S.
Concerning the United States hay market, the Canadian Trade Commissioner in New York states: "The possibilities of finding any substantial outlet in the United States this year for Canadian hay must be considered remote. Production in nearly all sections has reached a record figure, and while the quality of a great part of it may be inferior owing to unfavorable weather in some parts during cutting, there is such an abundant supply, coupled with a substantial carry-over and good pasture conditions, that there is no interest in Canadian offers."

SEE AND HEARD
Allie and Jimmy getting a scare. A number of the fivebank boys walking home from Halloween. Polly eating all the peanuts. Helen looking serious. Hilda needing a step-ladder. George doing his duty. Hannah keeping a sober face.

With the Boy Scouts

Both New York's World Fair of 1939 and the Golden Gate International Exposition in San Francisco will operate Boy Scout Camps within their grounds.

Lord Baden-Powell's son, the Hon. Peter Baden-Powell, is operating a ranch in Southern Rhodesia. Appropriately it is known as the "Loose Rover Ranch."

A Huge Eagle For Niagara Scouts' Clubroom
A mounted eagle with a wing spread of nearly six feet was a recent gift highly appreciated by the Scouts of the 1st Niagara of the West Troop.

The regal bird, the contribution of Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Acres, was placed over the big fireplace in the Group's headquarters.

A Boy Scout Woodcraft Competition
A week-end competition in camping and woodcraft that started upon the arrival at the camp site was the new Scout test presented the Boy Scout contingents attending the 1938 Northern Ontario Scout Jamore at Kapuskasing. Details included selecting of tent sites, pitching and groupings of tents, breaking of fire, cooking, food-storage improvisations, sanitary arrangements, and discipline.

Grade A for the test was awarded to the 1st and 2nd Smooth Rock Falls and 1st Iroquois Falls Scout troops. A demonstration of canoe handling and life saving was given on Sunday afternoon by Sea Scouts.

More Scout Tournaments First Aid

Two additional camps have been added to the unusual number of tournaments this year in which Boy Scouts have improvised a tournament to control serious loss of life. At the Windsor, Ont., boy playing corner lot football fell on a jagged piece of milk bottle and suffered a deep nine-inch cut in his calf. Scout Alan Wilkinson promptly applied a handkerchief tourniquet, and possibly saved the victim's life. In the second case Scout Harold Garstie of Hespeler, Ont., out hunting, was accidentally shot in the leg by a companion with shotgun. The Scout himself applied the tourniquet, with the help of his companion.

A Scout Gold Rush
An annual competition of Montreal Rover Scouts is the "Gold Rush," a test in rough country hiking, carrying food and equipment, as in a gold rush, for a newly discovered goldfield. The event this year was participated in by teams of four Scouts in presenting five different Rover Scout Crews.

B.C. Scouts Invite Adults To Join Tree Club
Langley, B.C., Boy Scouts have invited grown-ups to join them in a "Tree Club" reforestation project, for which they already have secured 500 seedlings secured by an expedition into the mountains. A progress report announced "eight members of the club have been secured, a little for the cause in order to become members."

Bound For Australian Scout Jamore
A party of 20 Boy Scouts drawn from different parts of the British Isles sailed from London, November 2, on the Old County, to represent the Australian Scout Jamore to be held near Sydney, N.S.W., December 20 to January 5. All First Class Scouts or King's Scouts, will be in charge of Rear Admiral Collins, C.B., R.N., a 14-day motor cruise will show the British boys something of Australia before the opening of the Jamore.

HERE and THERE "On the Air"

Edited by Arthur Jackson

A few weeks ago in this column I expressed a desire to hear "Now the CBC network program, 'The Romance of Sacred Song' (8 p.m. Sunday). In conversation with Rev. T. Dale Jones, pastor of Christ Church, Grande Prairie, I learned that he is much in favor of such program and that in some of his sermons he has given the history of a number of hymns. He added that he hopes to be able to give a program, 'The Day is Over' at an early date and would send me a special invitation.

While on the subject of sacred songs, probably many CBC listeners will recall "Your Hymn and Mine," broadcast last winter. If I had the money, I would sponsor a broadcast like that, because there are plenty of people in this north country who enjoy the old hymns.

As many other listeners probably do regarding their favorite radio program, last Sunday night, after being thrilled by CBC's production of selected parts from "Othello," I wondered how many people had enjoyed it too. William Shakespeare knew "his stuff," and Walter Hampden and his supporting cast knew theirs last Sunday night. Reception was good over CJCA except for a few minutes when a Mexican station was heard. Walter Hampden in "King Lear" should be a steady listener to next Sunday. Dial CJCA (730 kilocycles) or CBR (1100 kilocycles).

And now to turn to my friend on CJCA's Publicity Release. He says: "One man's meat is another man's poison. Radio is beginning to learn that. CBC official, Mr. Brockington, made it clear in one of his 'Chatting With the Listener' series for the Corporation. He leans toward the Saturday symphony. His sons willingly let him listen in his old-fashioned way, same as I do. I think you'll find the responses interesting—but hardly enlightening. They will, however, give you an idea of what radio production managers square up against in their effort to gain the favor of the Q. Public."

Here are the posers I popped at the public: (1) What type of CJCA program do you prefer? (2) What is your pet peeve?

So now I know, and will pass along to you the words of the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, in regard to radio:

The butcher said: "I may be considered old-fashioned, but I do prefer, of all CJCA programs, the New York Philharmonic. Even more than the music, I enjoy the commentating of the orchestra leader. He is a choir director, so that might explain my favoring of high-class music. If you want to know my pet peeve, it is swinging the bells. The numbers, especially the Scotch ones like Annie Laurie!"

On the subject of swing the baker waxed wroth, so I hastily assured him that CJCA, no longer allows any swingin' of the oldies, and I trudged on to query the Banker.

The Banker said: "My all-around favorite is the 'Professor Beware'."

"GUN LAW" EXCITING
With the aid of an "undercover" deputy planted in a little frontier town to gather evidence, George O'Brien finds plenty of excitement in his newest R K O Radio vehicle, "Gun Law," as he endeavors to capture an elusive band of outlaws.

A wealth of suspense and action is provided for picture-goers in "Gun Law" showing at the Capitol in a double feature on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 14 to 16.

"IT CAN'T LAST FOREVER"
A delicious comedy, the newly triumphed with musical specialties and exciting action-drama will take command of the Capitol Theatre screen in a double feature programme, when Columbia's "It Can't Last Forever" opens on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Raftel Belmont is featured in the leading role, his first important all comedy part, with Betty Furness, R. Armstrong and Raymond Walburn in support.

HAROLD LLOYD IN THRILLING COMEDY "PROFESSOR BEWARE"
Moviegoers with a yen for travel will get more than their share of it when the comedy "Professor Beware," when it opens at the Capitol Theatre on Nov. 17, 18 and 19. For Lloyd has the part of a down and out archaeologist who loses his job and must get to New York for another one. And with archaeologist as he is, he decides to ride the box-car and here he meets two tramps, Lionel Stander and Raymond Walburn.

Adventure piles upon adventure from that point on, and like a rolling snowball the comedy gathers momentum as Lloyd and his entourage near New York.

favorite program is that cheerful, saucy soul, Charlie McCarthy. I never miss that show, but I do not care much for Dorothy Lamour, and I can't stomach the new hill-billy act. My pet programs are the various symphonies although I wouldn't want them as a steady diet—just as I wouldn't want my garden to have in it only roses. You can't live on hors d'oeuvres and caviar. If you want my opinion, I should say that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is making marvelous strides. Some of their programs carry a real message, have an ideal back of them. I prefer that type of program to noise and slapstick with no point or meaning. My wife and I were sorry when the Youngbloods of Beaver Bend left the air. That story was typical of what Canadian farmers showed their spirit of progressive-ness. I would like to say, too, that the West is to be congratulated on the way it is keeping in step with radio progress elsewhere. Many of the most cleverly arranged programs originate in the West, and our Edmonton station, CJCA, has a very well-rounded schedule. And my pet peeve? Well, if you want it right from the shoulder, I could strangle those confidential, across-the-table type of announcers. I know they have their place, but I don't like them. I want my announcers to be cultured, not too forceful, and to remember their dignity. As an example, I would mention the announcer on the Contented program, Monday nights (Vincent Pelletier).

At this point I realized that the baker and the banker had said enough to fill all the space I rate in this column, so I'm leaving the filling station operator, my milkman, a streetcar conductor and a doctor until next week.

allegiance has been, of course, to Shakespeare, to whom he devoted exclusively five years of his career in Hamlet, Othello, Macbeth, King Lear, King Richard III, The Merchant of Venice, Taming of the Shrew, Coriolanus and Julius Caesar.

Walter Hampden's acting experience began in England as a member of the famous Shakespearean company of Sir Frank Benson. After leaving Harvard, he went to Paris to study music. He had a fine bass-baritone voice and a love for the cello. The stage, however, called and he followed it to London and for three years he played with Benson, acting more than seventy Shakespearean roles, great and small, in the English provinces. Then came his opportunity, when not yet 25, to step into the place of H. B. Irving, the latter becoming ill and play in London the part of Hamlet and later Romeo, in which he achieved, at Glasgow, the remarkable run of 11 weeks, a record never equalled before or since.

Shortly thereafter Mr. Hampden came to New York with the script of "The Servant in the House" and embarked upon his full career and real life-work as actor-manager. He has devoted his life to the presentation of the classics in a manner suggested by years of sympathetic study and an abiding devotion. His faith and patience have been richly rewarded by an appreciative and grateful public.

PRESIDENT'S DREAM HOUSE NEARS COMPLETION

This is how President Roosevelt's "dream cottage" on his Hyde Park, N.Y., estate looks from a driveway in the rear. It is nearing completion and will be without telephone and radio, so that the chief executive of the U.S. can get away from the worries of his office.

THEIR QUARTERS BURNED IN DEUTSCHLAND FIRE

These passengers were driven from their quarters by a stubborn fire aboard the S.S. Deutschland while the huge vessel was about 200 miles southeast of Newfoundland, and are here shown in their improvised sleeping quarters in the tourist class parlor.

SMUGGLING DAYS RECALLED

A photograph of Fish Street, in Goldhanger, a picturesque village on the Essex coast of England, where a number of cottages are threatened with demolition. Goldhanger was a noted centre of smuggling in the old days, and some of the threatened cottages were once the home of smugglers.

TRAFALGAR DAY CELEBRATION IN OLD LONDON

Representatives of the British Dominions are shown at the base of Nelson's Monument with their wreaths. At the left is seen Lieut.-Col. F. M. Stanton, representing Canada; the others, behind their respective wreaths, left to right: Rt. Hon. S. M. Bruce (Australia); Hon. W. J. Jordan (New Zealand); and Hon. C. T. de Water (South Africa).

KIDDIES ENTERTAIN ROYAL VISITORS

BRIDE OF TEN YEARS

Fleming Tackett, 34, and his bride, 10-year-old Rosie Columbus Tackett, pose for their wedding picture at Prestonbury, Kentucky. Last year the bride lived with her family in a cave; the bridegroom is a coal miner. The child may be placed in an orphanage by the authorities.

PAITHOUSKY OF QUEENS

Queens is at the bottom of the ladder in the Intercollegiate Union but is fighting manfully for a place higher up. Paithousky is doing good work at snap and the team should start its climb if it holds its present form.

GERMAN HUMOR

"... and this one I captured in the dining room."
—Lustige Blätter, Berlin.

To all Mothers and Dads who lost their "little lads" during the Great War.

MY LITTLE LAD

One happy morn—it seems but yesterday—
I watched the children playing on the lawn;
Beheld their soldiering and deeds of arms;
Unbloody battles, fought since early dawn.

And suddenly my boy, my little lad,
Fell, wounded, at my feet—in great pretense;
Lay stark and still, as if grim death had come
And summoned him and borne his spirit hence.

I cried aloud, I could not bear the sight,
In some strange way I could not comprehend,
It pierced the very marrow of my soul,
Like some dark dream of evils that impend.

Surprised my little lad awoke and smiled,
His dark eyes gazed in mine, dispelling fear.
"Tis only play, you know!" he cried in glee.
"They have not killed me, Mother, dear!"

And so, tonight, the tears more gently fall;
The day, though dark, is not entirely sad.
I have those words to aid me in my grief;
That happy vision of my little lad.

And from the field of carnage where he lies
His smile brings faith and hope, dispelling fear.
He cries to me, "Tis only play, you know."
They have not really killed me, Mother, dear!"

—Raymond Laurence.

TO THOSE WHO ARE REMEMBERING 1914-1918

"Let me not beg for the stilling of my pain, but for the heart to conquer it. . . . When tumultuous voices close me round, shutting me in on all sides, come to me, O my Lord of Silence, with Thy peace and rest."

Alas for him who never sees
The stars shine through his cypress trees;
Who, hopeless, lays his dead away,
Nor looks to see the breaking day
Across the mournful marbles play;
Who hath not learned in hours of faith
The truth to flesh and sense unknown,
That life is ever Lord of death,
And Love can never lose its own.

—Whittier.

WHAT COURAGE IS
Courage is to grieve, to have the hurt, and make the world believe you are not caring.
Courage does not lie alone in dying for a cause.
To die is only giving.
Courage is to feel the daily daggers of relentless steel
And keep on living.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science churches next Sunday the subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Mortals and Immortals." One of the Scriptural quotations in the Lesson-Sermon is 1 Corinthians 15:53, "For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality." One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, is: "Learn this, O mortal, and earnestly seek the spiritual status of man, which is outside of all material selfhood (p. 476)."

VALHALLA CENTRE

Funeral of Little Elliot Rohne Held Last Saturday

VALHALLA CENTRE, Nov. 8.—Last Saturday afternoon the church bell slowly tolled as the funeral procession bringing the body of little Elliot Rohne arrived at the Valhalla Lutheran Church.

It was undoubtedly one of the saddest funerals ever witnessed in the church, for everyone had learned to love this little boy; his bright brown eyes sparkling with merriment, his black head thrown back in career happiness, his feet beyond his three and a half years—and now suddenly he was dead.

The miniature white casket was carefully carried into the church by four young men: Jerome Toppin, Allan Olson, Everett Heggund and Even Lee. It seemed very fitting that Lefore Rev. E. N. Torgerson started the sermon young Jerome Toppin sang a solo and sang a solo in his clear sweet soprano voice.

The little white casket had the appearance of a garden of roses as it rested below the altar, smothered with flowers. The flowers seemed not yet out in full bloom, but like healthy buds reaching their heads toward that sun that it might transform them into their blossoming glory.

No picture could have been more appropriate, for underneath all these wreaths was another bud—little Elliot. As Mr. Torgerson put it in his sermon, he was a "bud" that God had taken away from earthly life and was about to replant into a life eternal. Mr. Torgerson went on to say that it was only natural that the mother and father, grandmother and grandfather and friends would like to see this bud blossom, but "His way is not always our way," and so little Elliot and been taken to the heavenly garden by the "Father."

Mr. Torgerson chose for his text the twenty-third Psalm. In choosing this Psalm, he told how little Elliot had been given a small book filled with Bible verses and when no one was watching he had marked with his little red pencil two verses. The first one, "The Lord is my Shepherd" and the second "As thy day is, so shall thy strength be." Days after he was dead this book was found among his possessions. Thus, it seemed that some divine guidance had moved his fingers gripping tiny red pencil and when no one might signify the red blood by which we inherit heaven.

In speaking on this theme, Mr. Torgerson pointed out that God acquits us with His love and grace. His promises in the beginning of the Psalm, Mr. Torgerson then enlarged upon "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me," he showed that even as it was natural for a child to say when speaking of death that "he would rather wait and go when you go, Father," so would it also be easier for anyone to walk through the valley of death holding on to the Father's hand. "Unless you are like a little child you shall not enter the kingdom of heaven," he said.

In speaking a few consoling words to the parents and relatives, Mr. Torgerson said that he felt little Elliot would want them to feel that he was at home in heaven, "I shall meet him again in heaven," Mr. Torgerson went on to say he believed Elliot would say, "The Good Shepherd took me in His arms and He carried me to the green pastures."

In conclusion Mr. Torgerson sang a solo and the four young boys again sorrowfully carried the little casket out of the church—up the graveyard hill to its final resting place. The church bell softly tolling as the procession moved along.

Floral tributes were sent by Mother, Father, Grandmother, Grandfather, O. M. Heggund and family, Mrs. Sam Lee and family, Ingvart Heggund and family, Rev. E. N. Torgerson's children, Simon Hanson and family, D. O. Hanson and family, Albert Hanson and family, Oly Veld and family, Palmer Lee and family, Olof and Marie Loberg, Betty Turner, Mrs. Gust Olson, Mr. and Mrs. L. Larson, E. Buckholdt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tappin and family.

HELPING HANDS GIRLS DECIDE ON SALE DATE
The Helping Hands Girls met at the Parsonage for their last meeting, guests of Rev. E. N. Torgerson and Mrs. Torgerson. The biggest part of the meeting was devoted to discussions regarding the date and necessary preparations for their coming winter sale. It was decided to have the sale December 8. The big attraction of the evening was the free concert, at which the best talent of the district will entertain.

LUTHERAN LEAGUE MEMBERS CONDUCT EVENING SERVICE
The members of the Lutheran League conducted the evening service Sunday, November 6. The program was made up of the following numbers:
Opening Hymn—"Eternal God."
Devotion—Clara Jerstad.
Hymn—No. 34.
Recitation—"Myself," by Betty Turner.
Mixed Quartette—"Our Best." The members of the quartette were Evelyn Velve, Marie Buckholdt, Arnold Floe, Harry Krantz.
The topic of the evening, "Cooperation," was then capably handled by Olof Loberg and Dolores Melness.
Each Sunday service two or three members of the League discuss some topic based on church, home or community, and this one, "Cooperation," gave all those present food for thought and reflection during the coming month.

The second half of the concert included:
Reading by Helen Rohn.
Solo—Jake Sonaviet.
Recitation—Jerome Tappin.
Reading—Mrs. Torgerson.
Quartet—"Jesus Never Fails."
Recitation—Anna Pearson.
And as a concluding number, the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The Lutheran League is at present working on a project to beautify the church grounds with trees and shrubs and the collection went toward that.

GOOD-WILL VISIT ENCORED

Rev. E. N. Torgerson was deep in meditation in his study last Thursday. On glancing out of the window in an effort to collect his thoughts, he saw a team drive into the yard, then a car and another car, until the house was surrounded by people, each carrying some offering of farm produce or whatever they felt they could give. With the hospitality that is so characteristic at the Parsonage now, they were all invited in, where the men sat and talked while the women cooked good Norwegian coffee, passed sandwiches and cakes.

After a pleasant visit they departed, leaving behind them pounds of coffee, apples, flour, sugar, canned fruit, pickles, butter and eggs. But they were highly paid, for they carried away in their hearts a spirit of good-will when remembering the appreciative faces of Mr. and Mrs. Torgerson.

In fact, the young men of the district enjoyed it so much that they made a second trip a week later—loads of wood were their excuses—and once more drank coffee and listened to Rev. Mr. Torgerson tell tales of his youth.

BACK FROM VISIT TO CAPITAL

Olaf Hanson, Mrs. Pete Jardi and Louie Larson arrived home from Edmonton last Wednesday after a week's absence.

Olaf Hanson reported a good business trip and had also enjoyed himself visiting relatives near Edmonton. Ethel Jardi, who made the trip to see Dr. Levey, eye, ear and nose specialist, came back well satisfied, for though the doctor could give her no hope of absolute recovery, he also said it would be years before there would be any definite change toward the worse. When in Edmonton Ethel saw a special trip to Camrose to visit with relatives there.

Although Louise Larson will have to make another trip for further examination soon, he was assured that he was doing as well as could be expected.

Other Valhalla people at Edmonton that same week staying at the King George Hotel were Bernard Tveter, Gust Nepsstad and Martin Fimrite.

HOLD FIRST SKATING PARTY

A party of young people from Valhalla Centre, South Valhalla, Poplar Hill and Glass Lake met at Totteland's Lake for the first skating party of the season. After three hours of good fast skating, coffee and lunch was served out on the ice.

During lunch a group of C. C. C. members got together to discuss work on the rink. The decision arrived at was that the boys would make a special morning and donate the day's efforts toward rink improvement. The girls volunteered a good hot soup dinner and lunch in afternoon to all willing workers.

TO HOLD ANNUAL C.C.C. MEETING SATURDAY NIGHT

The C. C. C. annual business meeting will be held at Valhalla Hall a week from Saturday night. The lunch committee are expecting to cater to a record crowd and after the business session games, grand marches, etc., will be chief entertainment of the evening.

Floyd Gikkyson and Swen Swanson arrived home with their trucks last week and are again busy at local trucking. They both found trucking in the districts where they were not as favorable as they would have liked and reported anything but a scarcity of trucks on the outside.

Ed Oland is just winding up his road work for the year and declares he is looking forward to the winter months at the homestead, away from all the modern conveniences, where he can just sit back in his cabin and enjoy nature. Although he terms the radio a "curse to humanity," he wonders if he is not going to miss those strolls up town in the evening to listen to the news.

Mrs. Melness is at present visiting at the home of her son, Harold, Melness, at Grande Prairie. She is expected home Armistice Day, when they will all come up for the long week-end.

Olof Rohn, youngest brother of Arne Rohn, arrived from Duluth to visit for a week with friends and relatives. He was in the Peace River country twenty years ago and at that time his father filed on land for him. He never saw the land until this trip. Mrs. Swanson of Rycroft arrived with Kathleen and Patsy to visit the winter with Mrs. Rubina Baker.

Misses Audrey Hanson and Sonja Lee journeyed to town Tuesday, Audrey to have a tooth filled and Sonja to have her tonsils removed. Sonja's chief complaint was that he could find no ailment that would necessitate him going along—but when Audrey promised to bring him something home from town he was quite satisfied.

This Week's Recipe

PARTY DISH FOR EVERY DAY

Eyes sparkle and the family has a new interest in dinner when food looks tempting and inviting to eat. That's why we call this Canadian fish loaf a party dish for every day. It is festive enough to make an impression on your most important guests and relatives, and simple enough to serve once or twice a week to the family. Besides, it is not expensive, always an important item. This Canadian fish loaf can be prepared in the morning and kept in the ice box or cold place while you spend the afternoon shopping or following your own pursuits, because it cooks in just three-quarters of an hour, so there is time to pop it in the oven when you get home and nobody will be the wiser that you did not stay in all afternoon.

Good looks and good taste combine in this Canadian fish loaf.

Canadian Fish Loaf

1 lb. can Canadian salmon

2 eggs, beaten

1 tablespoon finely minced onion, or onion juice

2 cups soft bread crumbs

3/4 cup of milk

1 teaspoon lemon juice

Remove the skin from the fish, and crush the bones, flake the salmon, and use the oil. Add the bread crumbs, beaten eggs, milk, minced onion and lemon juice. Mix well. Place in a greased loaf pan, and bake in a firm and browned. Unmould on a platter and serve with a medium cream sauce to which a sliced hard-boiled egg has been added. A teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce adds a little zip to the sauce.

This Canadian Fish Loaf may be varied by using halibut or cod, or any other fish available in the market. The bones and oil contain body building food values. The bones soften during the cooking and do not change the texture of the finished loaf.

Garnish with slices of lemon and serve green peas and plain boiled potatoes, tossed in butter.

H. R. McMillan of Cutbank Lake was a visitor to the Prairie on Tuesday. Mac stated that, although there was a somewhat short crop in the Peace River this year, he saw no reason for gloom.

SUPERIORITY

--- The Tribune Has It!

Not the haughty superiority of a grandee, but the genuine superiority of a good servant. The Tribune is superior in:—

GENERAL NEWS—Every week it has fuller and better reports of meetings, conventions, lectures, and other events.

DISTRICT NEWS—Many weeks this year it has carried more than twice as much "country correspondence" as any other weekly in this part of the Peace River country.

LOCAL WRITERS—Practically all local writers send their articles to The Tribune.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR—The Tribune has almost a monopoly in this district of these expressions of opinion.

PICTURE SERVICE—The Tribune was first in its field to use a regular weekly picture service. "We lead, others follow!" seems to fit the case. The Tribune still leads, for it still has the best picture service.

PICTURES OF LOCAL SCENES AND EVENTS—The Tribune has always been far in the lead printing pictures of local institutions, scenes and events; having, in fact, more than ten pictures to one printed elsewhere. The boosting of the Monkman Pass Highway is an example. No other weekly paper here has printed anywhere near as many pictures of scenes along this now famous proposed highway.

It is such service that counts in making a paper valuable to its community. The Tribune has the best equipment in its territory and an experienced staff to use that equipment. In addition it has the help of splendid news gatherers and friends boosting for it wherever two or more of its readers gather together.

The Tribune does not copy any other paper. The Tribune is not a political organ. The Tribune does not have to get any man's O.K. before it prints anything. The Tribune is an independent newspaper owned by independent men.

AND THAT IS WHY IT IS THE LEADING WEEKLY PAPER ON THE MONKMAN PASS HIGHWAY

W. Sharpe . . .

of this district want to use the Treasury Branch, the merchants of Wembley will not put any obstacle in their way.

Mr. Sharpe, M.L.A., was the next speaker. He recalled how the government was sent to Edmonton with a clear mandate to institute a new financial system based on Social Credit. He described the government's attempts to get the cooperation of the banks, as they are the logical people to administer any financial system. But the banks could have nothing to do with any ideas on finance except those embodied in the Canada Bank Act. The government then tried to do it by legislation which would have compelled the banks to accept the ideas of Social Credit. That legislation was disallowed by Ottawa and by the Privy Council in London.

The government is now trying to carry out the will of the people of Alberta by way of the Treasury Branches. Transfer vouchers are not legal tender. They cannot be endorsed and passed from hand to hand. Each transaction must be recorded in the accounts of each party to it at the Treasury Branch. This ensures that there will be no interference by Ottawa or by the banks.

No tax will be imposed to meet the three per cent bank charge allowed on purchases. That may be called a dividend. The amount may not look very large each month in a depositor's pocket, but it is in effect a purchasing power being distributed throughout Alberta without creating any debt.

Mr. Sharpe spoke for about an hour and a half, on banking and economics. He said he found it took a great deal of preparation to do that. He had studied hard on this thing, and the more he learned about it the more he is convinced that this government is on the right track. If the people make use of the Treasury Branches they will gain control of their own credit. It is a little trouble, some, at the beginning, to write out these transfer vouchers, for individuals and for merchants. "But," he said, "nearly for many years about the oppressive financial system we have been living under, and if anyone knows a way to get out from under it without getting into any trouble, let him come forward. Later on the provincial government may be able to make the affair more simple, but at the beginning it must be careful not to tangle with the Canada Bank Act."

When asked, after the meeting, if he would rather have had a bigger public meeting in the hall, Mr. Sharpe said he was very well satisfied with this one, as he was glad of an opportunity to meet the Social Creditors more intimately. However, he also said that if the Board of Trade or any other body wants to organize a bigger public meeting, he will be ready to address them.

Fire-Killed Timber
As an example of the inadequacy of the present financial system to meet our needs, Mr. Sharpe drew attention to the situation created by the bush fires which prevailed during the past summer. Timber that would make probably 20,000,000 feet of lumber was killed. That timber is not destroyed if nothing is done about it, it will soon become unfit to manufacture into lumber. We have the men willing to work and food for the men, and the necessary tools, and fifty-five registered sawmills in this constituency. And we need the lumber to improve our buildings. But because the price of grain is low at Liverpool, the men who bear the responsibility of operating the present money system cannot finance the work. This situation constitutes a challenge to men. Mr. Sharpe has had many requests for government assistance in the matter, from settlers and from mill owners. He has been trying to do something about it, but has not yet got the sanction of the government to his proposal, and so there is nothing to make public about it at the present time.Annual Meeting
After refreshments were served the Wembley Group held their annual meeting. Officers for the next year were elected as follows:
President—Andrew A. Pichko.
Vice-president—Frank Rennie.
Secretary—Murray MacDonald.
Treasurer—Robert McLean.

The membership fee was set at twenty-five cents for the next year, to be used as follows: Twenty-five cents for the League headquarters at Edmonton, twenty-five cents for the Constituency Association at Grande Prairie, and twenty-five cents for the Wembley Group.

A resolution which was carried unanimously is reported elsewhere in this issue under the heading "Wembley Social Credit" etc. (p. 1). It was decided to have refreshments at all meetings in future. The next regular meeting will be held at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, December 3, at the same place. All members are urged to attend, especially those who could not attend the annual meeting. The regular meeting day in the future, Saturday in each month, in the afternoon in winter and in the evening in summer. Any people who are interested enough to come are invited to attend these meetings.

Wednesday, November 2—Ted Fields arrived at Grande Prairie from Edmonton. Owing to bad weather he was forced to stay here all Friday before proceeding to Fort St. John with the following passengers en route to Vancouver: R. T. Johnson of Peace River, Mr. Lowrie and Miss M. R. Ward from Grande Prairie.

Sunday, November 6—Grant McConachie, piloting a Stinson from Edmonton. Passenger: Miss Murray, new dietitian for the Grande Prairie Municipal Hospital. McConachie carried what is believed to be a record air mail for the various points in the Peace River. The pilot left Calgary at 1 p.m., stopping over at Edmonton, and arriving at Grande Prairie at 5 p.m.

Monday, November 7—McConachie returned to Edmonton with mail, having for passengers "Sandy" Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Aspinol of Dawson Creek, en route to Calgary to attend the Ford dealers' convention. On the same day Ted Field arrived at Grande Prairie from Fort St. John. He then proceeded to Peace River, returning to Grande Prairie, Dawson Creek and Fort St. John.

Dr. Little . . .

radioactive waters at a few places, such as the Radium Hot Springs. Because radium is really dangerous, only skilled radiologists are permitted to use it—all quack claims for the treatment of cancer being harmful and dangerous. Early recognition of cancer is very important, the speaker stressed.

Dr. Little also spoke on the progress made in the conquest of tuberculosis. But he said, the medical profession still considers syphilis Public Enemy No. 1. Thinking women could do much to teach young people the dangers of this scourge and how to avoid it.

A lengthy discussion followed the splendid talk.

The health committee reported that due to their visit to the town health board notices of quarantine regulations were published.

They had also interviewed the public health separate school boards as to the advisability of employing a school nurse to visit the schools regularly. It was decided to refer the problem to the larger school unit and to interest outside schools in the proposal.

A box of apples was donated to the Municipal Hospital for Halloween. A request was also received from the hospital for clean magazines for the patients.

It was also decided to have a radio-house canvass for the radio fund being sponsored by the Women's Institute. A fuller account of this W. I. enterprise appears elsewhere in this paper.

A nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. Akin, Mrs. F. Spicer and Mrs. I. Card, was appointed to prepare a slate for the election of officers at the December meeting.

W.I. Contribution To Cancer Fund

Cancer is one of the very few remaining diseases whose cause has not yet been determined in spite of careful research to which doctors in many research centres are devoting their lives. But much advance has been made in the discovery and treatment of early cancer. And here each of us can take our place in the ranks. First, by having a medical examination annually, or immediately if any unusual symptoms are shown, especially after the age of 30. Some day there may be free clinics for such examinations. Early cancer is curable; advanced cancer is not. In the meantime we can assist the government to purchase radium, that costly substance which is of great value in the treatment of early cancer. By contributing to the Women's Institute Cancer Fund. Outside points may send contributions to their local W. I. In Grande Prairie donations may be sent to Mrs. L. Kowensky or Mrs. C. Stredulinsky.

Following is the list of contributions to Wednesday afternoon.
